Reflection on Easter:

For a year, even those who may not normally pray have cried out to God, save us! Save us from the pandemic. Save us from financial loss. Save my job. Save my loved ones from death. Protect us from prejudice, racist attacks, bullying. Save me from the thousand terrors that fill my mind by night and by day. We ponder on this season of Easter that the Son of God kneels before us to tend to our deepest wounds, we whisper, Save us that we may live forever with you in the Kingdom to come!

One of Jesus' deepest heart-cries this Easter is the longing for us to understand what was in his heart for us. Mary, who anointed his feet at Bethany a few short days before his Passion—she understood him. His mother who met him on the way to Calvary as he trudged beneath the wooden beams of our salvation—she understood him. John, standing beneath the cross to receive for all of us the precious treasure of Jesus' mother—he understood him.

There are many things in the world today that could make us run and hide, just as did the apostles who didn't understand Jesus deeply enough to overcome their fear for themselves. Remember Hosanna. Save us that we may live forever with you in the Kingdom to come! Lord, remember me when you come into your Kingdom.

Whatever you are facing this Eastertide, Hope is here. Hope is strong. Hope has a name. Our hope is Jesus. Let us strive to understand him.

Kathryn J. Hermes, FSP

I came across an article last week that made me reflect. The article was titled: "Baby Born With Rare Condition Missing Part of His Brain, Dies Peacefully At Age 5". The quote from his mom Brittany Buell say's a lot about faith.

"Life will no doubt throw you a curveball at some point, if it hasn't already," she went on. "When that time comes, we hope you'll be able to find inspiration from Jaxon's life. Trust your gut. Embrace uncertainty. Live the life you've been given, not the one you imagined. Know when it's time to give and when it is time to receive. Celebrate the little things. Use your words carefully, recognizing the power they wield. Savor each day. Believe in miracles. Remember that you're not alone in this. And always look up. For that's where we find real strength."

The secret of happiness is to live moment by moment and to thank God for all that he in his goodness sends to us day after day.—St. Gianna Molla

To find clues as to the meaning of life, we first look at ourselves.

Who am I? Is there more to me than matter? Is there more to us than meets the eye?
