Reflection by Fr. Kevin O'Sullivan, O.F.M.

On hearing the story of the merciless servant, each one of us would rightly judge him a mean heartless man, who puts himself outside the pale of mercy. He would not listen to the poor slave's plea for mercy of his debt. When we hear what the king did to this heartless servant we heartily approve and say: "It served him right, he got what he deserved."

We had better stop and think for a moment and reflect that we ourselves may be that merciless servant. Every time we have sinned we have incurred an unpayable debt to God. Each time we have received absolution we have come out of God's courtroom as free men. A great debt has been lifted from our shoulders because of God's loving, infinite mercy. How then can it happen that we could be so heartless, mean, and foolish as to refuse to forgive a neighbour for some offense he has committed against us?

It may be that some among us continue to have enmity in their hearts against neighbours who offended them. Are we not following in the footsteps of the merciless servant? Will we not receive the punishment of the merciless servant — This will be the fate of all unforgiving Christians; that we will meet an unforgiving God when we are called to settle our accounts.

We still have time to put our affairs in order. We still can forgive all our enemies from our heart. If we do not, we are cutting ourselves off from the possibility of having our own sins and offenses forgiven by God. We have the solemn word of our divine Lord for this in the lesson he draws from the parable "So also my heavenly Father will do to every one of you (that is, deliver us up to eternal slavery) if you do not forgive our brother from our heart."

My God, I am sorry for my sins with all my heart. In choosing to do wrong and failing to do good, I have sinned against you whom I should love above all things. I firmly intend, with your help, to do penance, to sin no more, and to avoid whatever leads me to sin. Our Savior Jesus Christ suffered and died for us. In his name, my God, have mercy.
